

From your Rector

Christ the King (Sunday next before Advent)

I'm hoping that this week's letter finds you well? Although we haven't been able to meet together for a few weeks now for worship or, indeed, for any of the other activities which are part of our life as Christians in this benefice you remain very much in my thoughts and prayers.

Our Archbishops are encouraging us to pray during this current lockdown and I'm hoping that we have been able to find time and space in which to do that. Centering ourselves on God at this time is important in order to sustain our Christian life.

And so as we end one year in the life of the Church and another is about to begin, my prayer is that we can be a people of hope and that we can share that hope with others. The message of hope is hugely important in our present circumstances and if each of us can share that with others then we will have taken another step towards the building of God's kingdom.

Until next year!

With my love and prayers and good wishes for the coming week
